

This ad will put you in court.

Within the context of our continued growth, we are offering committed attorneys-at-law with international profiles, professional experience and very good foreign language skills the perfect environment in which to develop. You will work closely together with an attorney-at-law in the team, and independently process exacting legal cases with international angles. You bring: in-depth knowledge and interest in matters of business and international law. A well-founded legal training, bar examination, court internship and professional experience in Liechtenstein or abroad are advantageous.
